Urge Grand Jury Action On Sutton

The representatives of seven active granges in the county with the legislative committee of the Greene County Farm Bureau, have taken action jointly relative to the condition of affairs in the county.

There have been two meetings held to throw out this matter and at the last a resolution was passed which called for a grand jury investigation based on the report of the state examiner of conditions found in the county treasurer's office.

The resolution also criticized the county commissioners for the unbusiness-like methods in connection with the building of roads in Ross township.

The resolution was as follows: "It is the sense of this meeting that the prosecuting attorney be requested to bring this report pertaining to the former County Treasurer before the next session of the Grand Jury. This body also wishes to go on record condemning the illegal, wasteful and unbusiness-like methods adopted in the past by our county commissioners. On motion the secretary is requested to have the action of this meeting published."

We understand that Prosecuting Attorney Williamson will soon call for the grand jury to make an investigation in compliance with this resolution.

COLLEGE NOTES

The College Annual, "The Cedrus," went to press March 18. Judging from the rumors we hear and from the personal of the staff, this year's annual will be the best ever published by Cedarville College.

We are soon to lose one of our most popular students and athletes, Mr. Walker Taylor. Mr. Taylor leaves us to accept a position with the Ellison-White Chautauque Co. We all wish him a good summer and hope that we shall find him with us again, next fall.

After a week's vacation the athletes of the college were called to base ball. About twenty men turned out for practice and although the bad weather has not permitted practice out of doors, the prospective players have learned some of the fundamentals at the gym.

The Orange and Blue society met Monday night in the college chapel. The society rendered a short but enjoyable program. The Orange and Blue papers caused a great deal of excitement. The meeting in general was characterized by its humor.

Last Friday afternoon, the Rangers Club journeyed to South Charleston. They had quite an exciting trip owing to blow-outs, punctures and engine troubles. The company did not arrive in time to give the entire program but the part which they did give was much appreciated.

College students as well as the town people enjoyed the opportunity to show their various abilities to spell at an old fashioned spelling bee given by the Standard Bearer's Society of the Methodist church. After a short program, sides for the contest were chosen. We saw it to the captain who thought that college people could spell for none could match Mr. Randall, the winner in the contest.

The services Sabbath night were in charge of the college. The sermon on the subject "The Kingdom of God" was preached by Mr. Harold Hammond. This will probably be the last time that the people of Cedarville will be given the opportunity to hear Mr. Hammond as a student.

A number of college students enjoyed the concert given by the Mackinac College Glee Club, Saturday night, at Xenia. The Glee Club is touring the Middle West in machines.

About twelve college people enjoyed a bounteous supper at Dorothy Oglesbee's Friday night.

Miss Ida Rees spent the week end at her home in Camden. Miss Hanna Kalp accompanied her.

Professors Brand and Flory spent Saturday in Dayton.

Professor Allen spent Monday and Tuesday out-of-town on business.

Dr. McChesney attended a ministerial meeting in Xenia, Monday.

The ranks of Cedarville College have been considerably broken in the last few days owing to the illness of college students and professors. Mable Shinkle, Nolle Boase, Arthur Finley, and Miss Flory have been enjoying this spring-time vacation.

Tests, tests! tests! This seems to be the motto of the teachers. Not only those that are compelled to on account of illness but the others as well are giving them. They all seem to have caught the fever. Of course we students are enjoying them immensely.

Miss Josephine Randall has been teaching in Cedarville High School, filling the place of Miss Patton, who is ill.

Young Man Is Accidentally Shot

John Daniel Steel, Jr., vice president and assistant general manager of the Hoover & Allison company, died at 6:30 o'clock, Sabbath evening, at his home in that city as the result of a gunshot wound inflicted at 1:15 during the early afternoon. The bullet from a .45 calibre revolver entered the body just above the heart, pierced the lung and passing through the body flattened itself against the brick wall of the building. Mr. Steel fell backward on the bed following the shooting and members of the family, who had heard the shot, found him in this condition.

Dr. W. A. Galloway and Drs. W. H. Finley and J. Kent Finley, reached his bedside a short time later and remained with him throughout the afternoon. He passed away at 6:35.

Mr. Steel has been in ill health for some time and for two months had been under the care of a Cincinnati specialist. He had been advised to take a trip for his health and was planning to leave last Monday for Western Canada and was to be gone a year.

He was reported to be in good spirits early in the day and reports from the family are that the shooting was accidental while packing his trunk but early reports were that it was self-inflicted. Coroner R. L. Haines held an inquest and his verdict was that the accident was entirely accidental.

The young man was 29 years of age and had spent his entire life in Xenia. He was a graduate of Wooster and for some time has had charge of the administrative work of the Hoover & Allison Company. He was very much interested in the welfare work of the employees and was generally liked by all who knew him. He was a member of the Masonic lodge and the Elks and is survived by his parents and two sisters, Misses Florence and Margaret Steel.

The funeral was held from the home Tuesday afternoon. Burial took place in Woodland.

"OVER THE HILL"

"Over the Hill," a famous serenade production is coming to the Murdock Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday April 5 and 6. This picture is credited with being one of the master pieces in film and was made from the famous poems of Will Carleton. The picture has been a big hit everywhere. To accommodate the crowds there will be a matinee on Wednesday at 2:00 p. m. and shows on Wednesday and Thursday nights. If the crowd justifies there will be second performances each night. As the picture requires 12 reels it will be a lengthy one. Special music has been provided.

FOUND FISHING GOOD.

The warm days last Friday and Saturday drew out the reel and line for the anglers and a number of them slipped up to the reservoir for a try at their luck. Those in the party were George Little, Ralph Wolford, Sidney Smith, Norman Ewbank, Cecil Ewbank, Leo Anderson, W. A. Turnbull, and Raymond Hittner. The fishing was reported good for the first of the season.

NEW GRAIN AND FEED STORE TO BE OPENED

The DeWine Milling Company, Xenia, owners of the Belden, Old Town and Jacoby mills and elevators have leased the room on Main street under the telephone exchange and will open a grain and feed store. Lee Fawcett, formerly of the Cedarville Farmers' Grain Company, will be in charge of the branch store. The company announces that all kinds of grain, feed, seeds, etc., will be bought and sold. The company has a branch in Yellow Springs and will open others shortly.

FARM AND FIELD NOTES

The second cream station of the Miami Valley Cooperative Milk Producers' Association, was organized here Friday night. Forty dairymen joined the company. The officers elected were Clayton McMillan, president; J. E. Kyle, vice-president; Fred Dobbs, secretary; N. P. Ewbank, treasurer, and E. B. Finney, advisory councilman. The officers constitute an executive committee and the opening of the station will be in their hands. It is expected that a station will be equipped and opened in a short time. The members will be under bond to sell all their milk and cream to the company, which will in turn sell it in the open market to creameries or by contract. Yellow Springs will also have a station under the same plan and both places will be operated on the same scale.

The final reports have been received on the steer feeding contest in this county and are as follows: Elder Curry weighed 40 head at 677 and out at 907, a gain of 230 lbs.; 63 days on pasture; 25 in feed lot; 21.5 cwt per day; 144 silage; cost 10.10; cost gain pork considered 30.70.

J. E. Kyle, 21 head in at 655 out 1052; gain per day 2.115; 54 days on pasture; 106 feed lot; 14.4 cwt per day; silage, 87 1-2; cost 5.35; cost pork gain 4.35.

Arthur Cummings 20 head; in at 692; out 917; gain per day 2.1-4; 30 days on pasture; 70 feed lot; corn per day 17.5 silage, 30; cost 5.35; cost pork gain 4.25.

Bert Turner 20 head in 700; out 1047; gain per day 2.1-2; days on pasture 51; feed lot 72; corn, 15.5; silage, 40; cost 5.50; cost gain pork, 4.55.

Smith & Kavanaugh 20 head; in 870 out 1110; gain 1.55; days pasture 25; feed lot 100; corn 37 1-2; silage 00; cost 9.80; cost gain pork 6.00.

Every week or so we see where some farmer in Madison county has met with misfortune and has gone into the hands of a receiver. So far as we can recall no case of this kind can be noted in Cedarville township. This certainly reflects the stability of the farmers in this community.

We notice by a Cincinnati paper that the famous Walkill Farms Company of Florida has been placed under receivership by Judge Peck of the U. S. Court in that city. Two receivers have been named to take over the company that owns several thousand acres and was supposed to be a big feeder of stock. No statement of the financial condition of the company has been given out yet. It is said that a large number of farmers in this county have holdings in this concern.

The wet season is holding plowing back and farmers are getting anxious to get the ground in order. Some time ago we heard it said that few tractors would be sold or even used by those who had them this season. The other day in driving about we noticed seven at work in a distance of about eight miles. More than that we hear of a number of sales to farmers this spring. The one dealer or that is selling tractors in this part of the county is R. A. Murdock, local Ford dealer. It is said that he has sold and delivered and has orders for sixteen tractors this season. This is quite a record. Frank Townsley, the stockbuyer, is one of the latest buyers of a Fordson. Mr. Murdock says that orders for tractors this year have exceeded the expectations of the Ford company.

WANTS DOWER INTEREST.

In the suit of Walter B. Beebe, receiver of Foster L. Houston, and others, an answer was filed Wednesday by Ida Houston, widow of Foster B. Houston, in which she consents to the sale of real estate involved in the suit, but asks that the court compute her dower interest in the property and that it be set aside for her.

Dr. Grube Takes Fling At Officials

The District Tuberculosis hospital in Springfield has been the subject of controversy lately as to mismanagement. A state examiner recently filed his report criticizing the board and now comes the board and exonerates the superintendent, Miss Shepherd of all charges. Charges of cruelty were also charged.

W. B. Crim, auditor of Champaign county was present told the commissioners that there must be more economy. He said operating expenses must be reduced. The county auditors, he said are limited by law in making up the tax levies and they cannot allow the board all the money wanted. It is your duty to close the hospital when the money was gone, he said.

Dr. R. H. Grube of Greene county urged that more money be granted the hospital. He attacked the auditors of Clark, Greene, Champaign and Madison counties as "autocratic."

The institution has had a bad history for the past few years. All sorts of charges have been made by former employees and by many of the patients until patients are afraid to enter same.

Dr. Grube's attack on the county auditors of the district will not injure these officials in the least. In fact the tax payers are commenting on the stand they have taken and will no doubt from now on urge that less money be levied for this institution. The public has found out long ago that such an institution was not needed, especially under the law that provided for districts. One state institution with one set of officers instead of a score or more officers the state would save the state money. It must be admitted that a number of physicians would be out of jobs as far as the state pay roll was concerned. According to the recent examination's report the head of the institution was buying cigars, to be used when the physicians were entertained. Probably Dr. Grube has real cause to feel offended at the "autocratic" auditors but public sentiment is with the auditors.

MUSIC IN THE SCHOOLS.

Music is one of the important factors in the development of the social life of every community and the interest shown in music is one of the surest indications of the culture of the community.

The day for instruction of music by the grade or high school teacher is past. Even years ago this was not looked upon with favor and those who had a taste for music were sent to singing schools. Some of our older citizens who are and have been recognized as singers and musicians received their instruction in the old singing school. Today the modern school has a well laid course for music. The larger high schools even have provision for instruction in instrumental music of many kinds. In this way the boy or girl that has talent may select by choice and have instruction along that line. No public school is in the A-One class today unless the course provides for musical instruction.

We were much impressed the other day when we ran across a report of the superintendent of the Lodi, O., public schools. The course in that school provides for vocal music; also stringed and wind instruments. As a result what do we find from this report. In four classes 23 pupils are instructed in the art of violin playing. Nine with wind instruments. In all 57 boys and girls are laying the foundation for special work along musical lines.

We also find in this report that the school has an orchestra of 22 pieces. Only six of this number had ever had previous instruction before the class was organized last September. The school also has a girl's glee club and one for boys. The lower grades of the school are being taught music under the course system and will be promoted as in other studies.

We cannot help but think that the local schools are not up to standard by the present method of musical instruction. The pupil learns little or nothing of the foundation required if a musical course is desired later in life or at the time of entering a higher institution. Then we have the families who are not able to give their children musical training. The community owes this instruction to such children. While our schools are costing us much more than in former years, and probably some of this money might be used to better advantage, none of it is lost.

HONEY PHILOSOPHY

When we are young our ambition is fired with the desire to create something, and then as we grow older we see that mankind can't create anything. Often, when it is too late, we learn the lesson—that our time should have been spent in recognizing the things that are created for us rather than trying to create new things and try to steal the job of the divinity. There has been a correct answer to every problem in arithmetic even before we knew anything about arithmetic, and so there is a solution to every problem in life that confronts us. All we have to do is to find the way. There is no path so thorny but there is a primrose byway that will lead us out to happiness if we only see it. It's there. We don't have to make it. All we need is to recognize it.

STOCK SHIPMENTS.

This county during the month of February shipped 10 floors containing 717 hogs through the co-operative company, 19 calves; 71 sheep, netting $4,806. The total amount of business for the year ending in March is $300,000. With the large amount of live stock being shipped from fall pigs, and cattle it is expected that more business will be transacted during the months to come.

Now you can get yeast the way you want it

For the first time you can get a pure whole yeast in agreeable and convenient tablet form

Of surpassing interest to you thousands of men and women who understand the remarkable health-building properties of yeast is the knowledge that you can now get yeast the way you want it.

Ever since the therapeutic value of yeast was definitely determined by leading scientists, there has been an insistent demand for a pure whole yeast of high vitamin potency—that would keep that would be easy and agreeable to take; that could be conveniently carried about in the pocket, and, finally, that would not form gas nor cause flatulency or belching.

In Yeast Foam Tablets these demands have been met.

A food—not a medicine
Yeast has within itself the amazing therapeutic element, vitamin, the corrective properties of which are more astounding than any known drug or medicine.

If you wish to take drugs or medicine, do so on the advice of your physician. If you wish to take a supplementary food, for its tonic action on the whole body, take pure, whole, concentrated yeast—Yeast Foam Tablets.

What this new yeast does

"Foods which lack vitamin will not maintain health," says a noted medical authority, "and many foods which originally contained this element reach our table with all vitamin eliminated, due to various heating and preparing processes."

The vitamin thus eliminated is restored through the addition to your regular food of Yeast Foam Tablets. They stimulate the appetite, aid digestion and enable the body to convert food into firm, healthy tissue.

What to take Yeast Foam Tablets for

For that ill health, commonly known as a run-down condition, and all its distressing symptoms such as sluggishness, anemia, failing strength and endurance, lost appetite and malnutrition, you will find nothing more efficacious than a prompt treatment of Yeast Foam Tablets. They are sold by all druggists.

LESSON FOR APRIL 2

ISAAC'S BIRTH ON GOD

LESSON TEXT—II Chronicles 14:1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Heb. 11:1. "By faith we see that Isaac was born of God; for we see on Thos. II Chron. 14:11. REFERENCE MATERIAL—II Chron. 14:1-12. PRIMARY TOPIC—A King Who Trusted God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God Helping Isaac. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Ruler Who Relied on God. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Source of Personal and National Power.

I. Isaac's Reformation (vv. 1-5). Isaac was the grandson of Rebekah, both his grandfather and father favored idolatry, but in spite of this record of his ancestors, Isaac had a will of his own, and though young when he came to the throne, inaugurated a campaign of reform which brought great good. He not only had the hand of the idolatry and immorality fostered by the two former kings, but he had to contend against the influence of his mother who had encouraged idolatrous worship (I Kings 15:13). In order to carry out his reformatory measures he had to wrest authority from her by deposing her. Isaac did that which was good and right in the eyes of the Lord (v. 2).

1. Cleared the land of idolatrous emblems and images (vv. 3, 5). (1) Strange altars. These were the altars devoted to other gods. (2) High places. These were places where unlawful sacrifices were offered. (3) Broke down the images. These were upright stones connected with idolatrous worship. (4) Cut down the groves. These were trees or poles connected with tree worship. He had all these relics of idolatry destroyed in Jerusalem and other cities throughout his kingdom.

2. Commanded Judah to seek the Lord (v. 4). He knew that if the reformation was to be effective it must be by the positive seeking after and worshiping of God, accompanied by obedience to His commandments. Destructive work avails little unless followed by constructive.

II. Isaac's Defensive Preparations (vv. 6-9).

1. Built fortified cities (v. 6). The cities are not named, but the meaning, doubtless, is that it was a general system of defense which involved the cities at strategic points.

2. He erected walls about the cities (v. 7). These were usually of stone. Upon the walls were observation towers from which the position and movements of the enemy could be seen, and from which defensive warfare could be waged.

3. Made gates and barred them (v. 8). The reason for these defensive preparations was that they had sought the Lord God. Those who really trust God will make every effort to provide defense.

4. Had an army of spearmen (v. 9). These spearmen were also protected with large shields. The army was made up of 480,000 brave men. They were prepared to wage an offensive as well as a defensive war.

III. Isaac's Victory Over Zerah, the Ethiopian (vv. 9-12).

1. Isaac set the battle in array (v. 10). He went out to meet the enemy. He first made a disposition of his means of defense. This was wisdom on his part. Intelligent faith moves the possessor to do first that which is within his power.

2. Isaac prayed (vv. 11, 12). He cried unto the Lord. He sought the source of national power. In this prayer note (1) his conscious helplessness. As he faced the Egyptian army two to one against him, he was clearly conscious of his impotency. The first requisite in obtaining help from God is conscious weakness. The Christian conquers not by self-reliance, but by self-distrust and faith in God. (2) Appeals to God for help. He knew that though they were helpless before the mighty enemy, with God's help they could win the victory. One man with God is a majority. (3) Reposes faith in God. The word "rest" means to lean upon—to cast the entire weight upon. In the measure that we realize our need of support will we lean hard upon God. (4) Advanced courageously. He went forth depending upon God to fight for him. Real faith does not wait until it sees its way clear, but goes forth expecting God to clear the way. (5) Flung himself upon God's arms. "O Lord, thou art our God." His cause was God's cause. If God has taken us for His people, and if we have taken Him for our God, no enemy can prevail against us. May we experimentally say, "Thou art my God," and hear Him say, "I am thy God!"

3. The Egyptians smitten (v. 12). The enemy fled before Israel and could not recover themselves.

Love, Faith and Hope. A little love from day to day, and strength enough to preach it; a glimpse of heaven along the way. And faith and hope to reach it.

Console Thyself. If thou suffer injustice, console thyself; the true unhappiness is in doing it.—Democritus.

Mistake Gold for Good. Miners mistake gold for good, whereas it is only a means of obtaining it.—Beckettsaid.

Softening Hides. There are two simple ways of softening leather and raw skins. One is to rub in thoroughly neat's foot oil. Another way is to dissolve three ounces of alum, seven ounces of salt and one and one-half ounces saleratus in sufficient hot rain water to saturate the skin. When cool enough not to scald the hands soak the skin in it for 12 hours; wring out and hang up to dry. When dry repeat this operation two or three times until the skin is sufficiently soft.

SAVE Natural Gas

Is Your Gas Range Economical?

Whether for food, clothes or gas, you want the full value of your money. Natural gas, rightfully used, is the greatest value for the money of any fuel. It has twice the heating value of the best manufactured gas, and costs less than half.

Many homes might have the same gas service at a lower cost by more careful regulation, while many could save the cost of better appliances in reduced bills.

Costly Practices

Ranges with solid tops cost you money for which you get little. Use grid tops or skeleton lids. Burners more than 1 1/4 inches from the bottom of your cooking utensils waste your money. Raise them.

Long or yellow flames are burning money as well as gas. Short blue flames are most efficient.

Burners clogged with dirt add to your gas bills. You know the remedy.

Look over your gas range. See if you cannot make it more efficient and thereby save money.

Not only is it to your interest to use the best burning devices possible because of the lowered gas bill, but it is a means of stopping waste.

You must help save the gas supply by such methods if you desire to retain the use of the best of all fuels. Will you help?

The Broken Engagement

By WINFRED DUNBAR

"I'm in a trap, that's what I am!" muttered Martin Dalton, "and you've got to help me out of it."

Hugh Wayne, lawyer, smiled slightly. He did not like an irrepressible sentiment of contempt for his tussle, erratic client.

"I heard she was betrothed to a big estate," continued Dalton. "Come to find out, she has simply an interest in a lawsuit that may drag along for years, and when it winds up all the fun will go for litigation. You're my lawyer—I've come to you for advice."

"Well, what do you expect me to do?" questioned Wayne.

"I am engaged to Miss Croydon. I want to break the engagement! I want you to help me get it rumored around that I've lost a lot of money. That'll fix things sure!"

Wayne neither assented nor dissented to this suggestion. He had met Vera Croydon more than once, for sterling, charitable nature had appealed to him strongly. His life had been a lonely one.

Now he was glad that this peerless woman was not to marry Dalton. During the next two or three days Wayne learned how Miss Croydon, her sisters married off, her freedom of thought, pleasant, her longing for some companionship, had accepted an offer of marriage as a refuge from loneliness.

In about a week the town was startled, then interested and then all gossip and tattle over rumors of the financial ruin of Dalton. Then, one morning, Dalton came into the lawyer's office.

"Well, I suppose you know I'm bankrupt," he gloated.

"Yes, it's all over town," nodded Wayne.

"I have written to Miss Croydon, telling her of my changed fortunes. I suppose she will be down here to see you, hinting about disappointment, balm for a broken heart, and all that."

"I doubt it," observed Wayne, dryly.

"Oh, you don't know women as I do. Well, then, if she is at all obstreperous, I'll give her a thousand dollars to let me off. Fix it up with her. I've had a narrow escape."

It was with difficulty that Wayne could endure the coarse, offensive bragging of the selfish, calculating Dalton, but he was his chief client, and it was policy to remain "negative."

Just as he was leaving his office that afternoon a visitor entered, who seemed to bring with her an air of respect of flowers, the fresh air and the subtle charm of rare womanly dignity and beauty. It was Vera Croydon, and she was his chief client, and it was policy to remain "negative."

"I have come to ask you to speak for me to Mr. Dalton," she said with downcast eyes. "In all honor he paid me the compliment of asking me to become his wife. I learn now that he has lost his fortune. I gave my promise—I cannot break it. His poverty will make no difference to me."

Wayne was amazed. Then he fancied he read between the lines. This noble woman respected a solemn pledge. She must know she was sacrificing herself, but she stood firm.

He would not tell her of the money offer, of the real sentiments of Dalton. To his intense satisfaction Dalton happened into the office at that moment. In a polite, easy way, Wayne managed to leave them in consultation. He walked up and down the corridor while they were conversing. Finally, Dalton came out with the air of a man accepting something he dreaded.

"Engagement canceled! Let me off without a penny," jubilated the heartless mercenary. Kean-witted Hugh Wayne could not fail to read the expression of relief he noticed on the face of Miss Croydon.

"I fear I have given a serious mistake," she said, with a bright smile, and the seal of Wayne took hope.

Somewhat he got to calling upon her. Then he became interested in the great lawsuit, which involved her inherited fortune. One day, several months later, Dalton met the lawyer on the street.

"I say," he observed, "I see in the papers that Miss Croydon has won her fortune, after all?"

"Yes," assented Wayne.

"With I'd stuck to her," remarked Dalton. "You helped as my lawyer, didn't you? Big fee, I suppose?"

"The best in the world," declared Wayne.

"Do tell—what now?"

"Here, Miss Croydon becomes my wife next week."

"In the swim," is very easily understood and is used today, as it has been for many years, to denote that a person is in the midst of prominent activity, either in society, in business or in any other field. That origin of the expression had something to do with fish and water is obvious. It is presumed that it had been borrowed from the fishermen on the Thames who called those portions of the river where the greatest number of fish could be found, "the swim."

The reverse of this saying "to be out of the swim" is taken from the same source. A Thames fisherman who has vainly tried to make a catch remarks that he is "out of the swim," meaning that he happens to be near a spot where fish are scarce.

Richard Pearl Fisheries. Although most of the bays and inlets of the remote island groups of the South Seas have been stripped of their pearl-bearing bivalve mollusks by venturous world-wayfarers, these continued to be found occasionally in small areas of these waters that have been untouched by pearl divers and which often yield wealth to the explorers. The richest pearls waters in the world are those adjacent to the picturesque beach town of Broome.

Exit Humorous. While making a tour of the southern states, we were driving along a country road, when a farmer came walking toward us. One of our crowd, a humorist, thinking he would have some fun with the man, stopped the car, and taking a small satchel and a tin of paint, gave a ten-minute impression of Billie Sunday. When he had finished, the man looked at him a little queerly, put his hand in his pocket and gave him a card. On it were the words: "I am deaf."—Exchange.

The Professor's Discovery

By MALCOLM BROWN

Professor Singleton sat crouched over his microscope. To the observer he would have seemed to be studying only a tiny spot of jelly upon a slide. The professor, however, was looking into a thickly populated world. The drop of jelly, like the world, was round, and within it several millions of the sprinthes Jacksoni were putting on wings.

Singleton was forty-two. A rich man, he had devoted himself for years to his scientific investigations. Of late, however, ever since his marriage the year before to a charming society girl, who had devoted her whole care to his welfare, he had insensibly been drawn away from his hobby. That he had shamefully neglected Mary did not occur to him. He lived for his researches. Mary lived for him. She had abandoned all her old friends, except the Streets. George Street and she had been great friends before her marriage, and surprise had been felt that she had chosen the professor.

For two whole days and a night Singleton had bent over his microscope. He had not slept; he had eaten there, sipping beef tea and hot milk which his wife brought him. Now at last he was to be rewarded. Sprinthes was undoubtedly passing from the larval into the pupal stage, and from that into the full-fledged imago.

Suddenly Professor Singleton heard George Street's voice in the next room, and Mary's answering.

"An old man," Street was saying. "Mary, you have left yourself for life to one who can never appreciate or understand you. Your life is one long sacrifice."

"I know it," answered Mary, ever so softly.

The professor's heart was thumping against his ribs. He was a self-worshiper. Street's voice continued. "He lives for himself alone."

"No, there you do him an injustice," Mary responded. "He lives for science."

"And, like a Molech, it immolates its victims upon its altars. You are the victim, Mary!"

Professor Singleton sat bolt upright in his chair. For a moment he had forgotten his researches. He looked around him. His eye fell upon a Malay kris hanging upon the wall, which a friend had sent him from Borneo.

The professor's eye returned mechanically to the microscope. The sprinthes was emerging from its pupa. Undoubtedly this proved his contention.

"How long will you suffer in this way, Mary? You are fifteen years younger than he is. You have made a ghastly error—but why should it ruin your life?"

"It shall not," Professor Singleton heard his wife whisper.

The professor rose noiselessly out of his chair. He took down the kris with trembling fingers.

The kris seemed louder now and shamelessly indifferent. Professor Singleton crept stealthily to the party opened door.

"I love you," he heard reiterated through his maddened brain, and he was standing in the room now, and still in the same costume. They seemed to elude him, traveling from corner to corner. The professor lunged forward, his outstretched hands encountered a soft object with flying draperies, and with a yell he thrust the kris upward, turned it, and thrust again. Then he fell senseless upon the floor.

Morning—a quiver of sunlight—voices in the room. He opened his eyes, to find himself lying in bed in his own house, and his wife bending over him.

"What is it? Where did you come from?" he muttered, half-conscious.

"You have been ill," said Mary. "George Street. Where is he?" he asked.

"George? My dear, don't you remember that he sailed for the Philippines a month ago—three weeks before you were taken ill?"

"That did I do? Killed someone?"

"You were found lying upon the floor of the living room. You had taken Mr. Humphreys' kris and dug a hole in the armchair. You must have lain there for hours before I came home and found you. I thought you were in your laboratory."

That reminded him. "The microscope!" he exclaimed. "I must go. How long have I been ill?"

"About a week, dearest."

The professor sank back groaning. A week! Fifty generations of the sprinthes must have been born and died, and there would be years of patient work before he could renew the conditions which had existed before the illusion dragged him from his chair.

He remembered all now. George's departure, Mary's absence that evening at a neighbor's house. The voices had been born of his own conscience, and weakened and overstrained, he had heard them externally. Unless unless they had been sent by some beneficent power to aid and warn him.

"Mary," he said later that day, "when I get well I think I shall give up my researches. Let younger men take up the work. I have done with them."

He saw the tears in her eyes. "I'm a selfish old beast, my dear," he added. "But—I think I'm putting on wings now."

But only the professor understood.

City Furthest South

Punta Arenas is the southernmost city in the world. This title does not carry with it any of the warmth suggested in the word south, for Punta Arenas is nearer to the south pole than to the tropics. Overcoats and furs are in order in Punta Arenas all the year round—even in January and February, which are summer months down there. Following the inverted calendar of that part of the globe, July and August bring to Punta Arenas enough snow, wind and ice to leave no room for doubt that the South ceases to be warm before it reaches this latitude. The world's most southern city is on the strait of Magellan, in Chile, which makes it 600 miles further south than Cape Town, Africa's city nearest the pole.

Decided by Ancient Law

A decision which depended on a law 1,400 years old was given in the county court at Bath, England, when Judge James had to rule whether or not the owner of bees which leave their hive and swarm some distance away is entitled to regard them as his property. James Barstone claimed damages from Herbert Humming, a neighbor, for a swarm of bees which had swarmed from his property. Humming is alleged to have said: "The judge said it had been clear for hundreds of years, under a law laid down by the Emperor Justinian, that a swarm of bees belonged to a man as long as they were in his sight, and could easily be pursued. Otherwise they became the property of the first person who saw them. The law, he said, was just as it was hundreds of years ago and he decided for the defendant."

Goat Milk Condensery

The only goat milk condensery in the world is located at Pesadero, San Mateo county, 45 miles south of San Francisco. Here the Wiedemann goat milk laboratories maintain a herd of 8,000 milk goats, according to the California development board annual report. The milk goat is seemingly immune from tuberculosis and the disease for which milk from physicians for use of tuberculosis patients and infants far exceeds the supply. Interest in this branch of dairying is increasing, indicated by growing demand for breeding stock and importation of outstanding animals. During the last two years the number of milk goats owned in the state has increased about 50 percent, many of them purchased for family use.

Fruits of the Spirit

The fruits of the spirit are love, joy, peace, kindness, benevolence. The lesson here is not only for the great powers, hitherto concerned at peace settlements only with division of spoils; but it is also for labor and capital, for the upper ten and the lower five, for all the varied and sometimes combatted elements in our complicated social framework. The mind that is ruled by hate is sowing seeds for his own reaping in loss and shame. The Sermon on the Mount still stands—unchanged.

HASTY CONCLUSIONS SHOULD BE AVOIDED

All Angles of Farm Enterprise Should Be Considered.

If Cows Were Sold There Would Be No Way of Using Roughage—Labor Also Would Be Lost, Adding Another Burden.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Hasty conclusions should be avoided in making use of the results of the year's cost accounts for improving the organization of the farm, warns the United States Department of Agriculture. All good farmers know that sometimes a positive decrease in profits may ensue if an enterprise be dropped because, taken alone, it has failed to pay. Cows, for instance, may not show a net profit, but if all the cows were sold there might be no other way of using the roughage, which would become a dead loss, labor devoted night and morning to Lawrence Kennon, who teaches in the high school at Conneaut, O., and is coach of athletics, has the honor of seeing his team win the county championship. The deciding game was won from Ashtabula by a score of 20-17. This same team had been defeated earlier in the season by a score of 13-11. The first basket ball team only lost two out of 10 games. The second 2 out of 18 games. Mr. Kennon while here in college had much experience as a player on the local team and his coaching of the Conneaut teams was no doubt the result of his training on the college team. He is to be congratulated for his work.

Keeping of Cows May Be Responsible for Making Hogs So Profitable.

milk and feeding cows, and charged to them, would be entirely lost if the cows were sold and nothing supplied to fill in their places. Thus an added burden for the maintenance of labor would have to be borne by the other enterprises.

The fact that the hogs or the corn crop bring the most net money during the season is no reason for assuming that the activities of the farm in the future should be devoted solely to hogs or corn. It may be that the keeping of cows is partly responsible for making hogs so profitable, or that the growing of wheat, clover, or other crops in rotation with corn makes the latter crop much more profitable than it would have been if grown alone.

Similar conditions will be met with on all farms and, therefore, no sudden changes should be made on the basis of what a single year's accounts may indicate. All angles of the enterprise should be taken into consideration.

POTASH IN WOOL RECOVERED

Small Washer Has Been Designed and Is Being Tried by the Bureau of Chemistry.

A small wool washer made for recovering potash from fleeces is a solution of sufficient concentration to make the recovery of the potash profitable. It has been designed and is being tried out by the bureau of chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture. It is said that the average fleece contains about 4 per cent of potash by weight, but in the ordinary method of washing wool it comes out in such dilute solution that it does not pay to recover the salt.

About 600,000,000 pounds of wool are secured in the United States each year, and if only 3 per cent of potash is recovered it would amount to 18,000,000 pounds of actual potash that would be available for use in fertilizers. Some nitrogen is also recovered from wool along with the potash.

INOCULATION OF SOY BEANS

When Sown on Land Not Previously Planted to Crop It Is Advisable to Use Culture.

Natural inoculation now occurs quite generally throughout much of the area where soy beans are grown extensively. When sown on land which has not been previously planted to this crop, however, it is advisable to inoculate with the proper culture. Inoculation may be obtained, either through the use of a pure culture, a limited quantity of which can be procured from the United States Department of Agriculture free of charge, or by the use of inoculated soil from a field where soy bean plants have previously developed nodules. The inoculated soil may be drilled in at the time of seeding, using the fertilizer box, or by thoroughly mixing a gallon of the soil to a bushel of seed.

STRAWBERRIES ALL SUMMER

Popular Varieties Are Progressive and Superb—Resistant to Leaf-Spot Diseases.

Strawberry plants which will continue to produce strawberries until hard frosts occur may be grown in all of the northern United States and in the mid-western states. The two leading varieties of this type of strawberry, the progressive and the superb, are notable because they are exceptionally resistant to leaf-spot diseases. Another remarkable characteristic of these varieties is that if their blooms are killed by frost they soon flower again. Therefore, in sections subject to late spring frosts, which often destroy the crop, these varieties are particularly valuable.—United States Department of Agriculture.

Country's Largest Industry. America's largest manufacturing industry is iron and steel. The pig iron recovered in smelting iron ore amounts to about 25 per cent of the raw materials. The equivalent of about 14 per cent is driven off by volatilization in the coking of the coal; in the process of smelting a further 40 per cent escapes in gas, fumes and dust, and the remaining 21 per cent represents the slag.

Antioch College has taken an option on the famous Bryan park to secure an adequate water supply for the sanitary district that has been proposed and is now pending in court. Part of the village of Yellow Springs will benefit by this sanitary district and sewerage plant and the cost of same will be assessed according to the benefits derived by the property holder.

Poem by Uncle John

THE OLD OAKEN BUCKET

The old oaken bucket has ceased to render a theme for the poet, or song for the muse; the fire-plug, and the pump, and the engine have rendered amply through a meter the stuff that I use. And now comes the bucket, constructed of paper, that dangles beside me as homeward I go; I've learned to regard it a cute little caper, to feel my old woman who likes tea, you know. How fondly I cling to my six little pickles, my grocer tied up in a syndicate tray—I gaze at the clouds while the vinegar trickles and gapes up my clothes with a stain that will stay. But the square paper bucket I hold a treasure, and proudly I swing it, as homeward I speed; there may have been buckets that held better measure, but it's got 'em skinned when it comes to a feed.

Famous Tree Moves To Sacred Ground

If Daniel Webster, famous American statesman, should return to Washington looking for the shade tree under which he rested at his home there, he might be surprised to find it growing beautifully in another part of town. The tree, as shown in the picture, has been moved over to the Lincoln Memorial Grounds for preservation and given prominent place.

Brought Them Ready Mixed.
Ann had been told by her mother to stop at the grocer's on her way home from school and bring a pound of flour, and a half pound of sugar and some baking powder. The little girl, thinking it too much trouble to carry the three parcels, placed the contents of each into one large bag and in that way carried it home. When she came home her mother asked her if she had forgotten something, and the child answered: "No, mother; I brought all you told me to, but I put the sugar, flour, and baking powder together in one bag, as I thought it wouldn't make any difference, as you put them all in the cake anyway."

Men of Weight and Influence.
"Success brings power," says a magazine writer. Especially avoid politics.—Cleveland News.

Keep Troubles to Yourself.
Life for the vast majority of us is none too carefree. This trouble, or that disappointment, makes our world very cheery at times; but dwelling upon our problems, elaborating upon our difficulties, or longing to share those unpleasant realities with others, will not aid us one iota. We, each, individually, must stand our own ground, and, if we are wise, refuse to be influenced by any unproductive moods.

Rather Well Put.
John was downtown with his father, who was buying a pair of shoes. He found a pair that were satisfactory and told the clerk he would take them. John looked at his father and said: "Are you sure your feet feel contented in them, daddy?"

Don't Do It.
It is bad manners and bad business etiquette for two employees of the same office to discuss the personal affairs of fellow workers or of their employer. Almost every worker is in possession of some private information as a result of his work, but that should be regarded as a trust not to be betrayed. It is also bad manners to inquire as to the wages or the particular duties of fellow workman.—Biddy Bye.
